Very chuffed to have received this today! If you haven't already started collecting points for an IEAA Fellowship, I highly recommend that you look into it as soon as possible. It is a fantastic scheme, and the platform is really easy to use. Huge thanks to the IEAA team for the wonderful work that they do for the sector, but also for advocating for us as professionals. Special thanks to Peter Muntz for yet another innovative, creative idea - not only beautifully presented but so easy and practical to use.

IEAA Associate Fellow (IEAA-AF) was issued by International Education Association of Australia (IEAA) to Leanne Harrison.

Congrats to International Education Association of Australia \(IEAA\) for their new industry certification program, and their longstanding efforts to recognise the #internationaleducation profession and grow career opportunities in the sector. I'm so pleased to be on board as an IEAA Associate Fellow (IEAA-AF) and grateful to all the mentors and colleagues who have been part of my (almost) 15 years in the sector so far.

▶ Module 1
International education essentials

Since the first overseas student arrived on our shores in 1904, international education in Australia has grown and evolved to where it is now – almost 700,000 international students in 2018, which equates to around 1 in 50 people in Australia.

As the title of this module suggests, 'International Education Essentials' provides a valuable introduction to international education in Australia.

By completing this module, you will better understand:

- the origins, breadth and importance of the international education sector in Australia
- Australia's place within the global education market
- key statistics and facts relating to the sector
- the Australian Government's role in international education
- the future opportunities and challenges for international education in Australia.

This module will also allow you to relate what you explore to your individual context, while considering the implications for your future work in the sector.

To finalise this module, please visit each of the topics listed below and complete the associated learning tasks.

- 🕒 Why is international education important to Australia?
- 🇦🇺 Australia's global positioning
- 📊 Stats and facts
- 🏛️ Governance and policy
- ➡️ The future

Topics include:

1. The origins, breadth and importance of the international education sector in Australia
2. Australia's place within the global education market
3. Key statistics and facts relating to the sector
4. The Australian Government's role in international education
5. The future opportunities and challenges for international education in Australia.

Thanks International Education Association of Australia \(IEAA\) ! I just received my digital badge after completing the Marketing and Recruitment Strategy module as part of their new online learning platform.

As our research showed, many of those working in international education loved their jobs and the industry however felt as though there was a lack of career development pathways and specific training. IEAA and their new Professional Learning Framework demonstrate a big leap in bridging this gap. Great work by all involved!
